

Patient Intake Report

Patient: James Okoro Age: 29 Sex: M Date: 2026-07-20

Chief Complaint

Itchy red rash on both forearms for the past 5 days.

History of Present Illness

Patient noticed a mildly itchy, red, slightly raised rash on both forearms starting five days ago, shortly after using a new laundry detergent. No spreading beyond forearms, no blistering, no fever, no systemic symptoms. Over-the-counter hydrocortisone cream has provided mild relief.

Relevant Medical History

No significant past medical history. No known drug allergies. Mild eczema as a child.

Vitals

BP 118/76, HR 72, RR 14, SpO2 99% on room air, temp 36.7C.

Physical Exam Notes

Well-appearing, no acute distress. Erythematous, mildly scaly patches on both forearms, well-demarcated, no vesicles or open lesions. No lymphadenopathy.